

TEUTONS ROUTED AS CZAR'S ARMY PUSHES ONWARD

Russians Advance on 150-Mile Front—Stanislaw, Railway Center, Menaced.

(By the International News Service.)
London, July 29.—Immediately upon the fall of Brody, in northeastern Galicia, the "watchful waiting strategy" that had been forced on the Russian armies in central Volhynia and in southern Galicia pending a break of the Austrian resistance on the Brody-Leszynoff road, gave way to a resumption of a concerted drive by Gen. Brusiloff's armies on the whole front from east of Kovel down to the region south of the Dniester, a battle line more than 150 miles long.

As a result of the last twenty-four hours' struggle the Russians have broken through the entire Austro-Hungarian front lines to the southwest of Kovel, driven the defenders into disorderly retreat, and in the south have advanced within twenty miles of Stanislaw, the converging point of five important strategic railways which command the supply system of the whole southern army chain of the Austro-Hungarians.

In today's and Friday's battles alone the Russians took 32,653 prisoners, including 65 officers and two generals, and captured fifty-five Teuton guns, according to the statement issued by the Petrograd war office today.

The total number of Teuton prisoners taken in the first half of the Russian summer campaign just closing is placed at 250,000 by a semi-official estimate given out in the Russian capital.

RUSS ADVANCE

Czar's Troops Press on Toward Sivas and Kharput, Big Bases.

(By the International News Service.)
London, July 29.—A further advance toward Sivas and Kharput by Russian columns operating from the recently captured city of Erzingan is reported tonight by the general staff at Petrograd.

These important bases lie south and west, respectively, of Erzingan. Sivas is the first stronghold in the path of a Russian advance to the sea and Constantinople.

The first official admission of the loss of Balburt, Gumkhan and Erzingan by the Turks is contained in the following statement received tonight from Constantinople:

"Owing to Russian attacks in the direction of Balburt and Mamabatur, against the center, we retired in good order, launching counter-attacks."

"On the left wing, in the coast region, we also retired in an orderly manner, following the movement on the center."

"Consequently Balburt, Gumkhan and Erzingan fell into enemy's hands."

SAVED HER FROM LOSING PANTALETTES

Special to The Washington Herald.
New York, July 29.—Thomas Rector's transformation of himself into a pair of suspenders was all that saved Miss Lorraine Misher, his dancing partner at the McAlpin, from furnishing the tired business men assembled there last night with a thrill.

During one of their "turns," where Miss Misher wore a cute Hawaiian costume, with pantalettes supported by baby-ribbon shoulder straps, Rector observed the shoulder straps had given away. The situation was one fraught with possibilities. But Rector kinked his encircling arms tighter and upheld the slipping pantalettes.

POLICE AID WIFE TO ELOPE; AFFINITY QUILTS

Special to The Washington Herald.
Chicago, July 29.—The police were quite willing to help Mrs. Fred Lang elope, and she might have done it, too—only the chosen man failed to arrive.

It was Lang himself, the husband, who first appealed to the police. He said his wife was about to elope with Harry Kramer and that she was going to take their daughter with her. His special anxiety was to recover the child. But he wouldn't sign a complaint, and therefore when Mrs. Lang came into the station the police said she could go as far she liked.

OVERSEAS AERO ROUTE PLANNED

Germany Preparing Trans-Atlantic Service with Huge Planes, Says Report.

(By the International News Service.)
New York, July 29.—German enterprise, having startled the world by sending to the United States a merchant submarine boat, is said by reliable authority to be preparing further to excite admiration by linking the two countries through a trans-Atlantic air service.

It is definitely known that German aeronautic genius has perfected a huge triple screw triplane, which is of sufficient power and endurance to cross the Atlantic. Tests of this aircraft have proved its possibilities, and, it is declared, the exact date of the flying blockade-runners' arrival depends only upon propitious atmospheric conditions.

The giant air vessel will carry several tons of mail, a crew of eighteen or twenty men, and gasoline sufficient for a 7,000-mile journey. The machine, the International News Service informant states, will be sent on its way from its base at Helgoland. Its run to America will be about thirty hours.

Official announcement of the promised spectacular achievement. It is stated, has been delayed in hope the Bremen, the second merchant submarine, would bring more complete information and perhaps some photographs.

ANOTHER DEAD IN CAR STRIKE

Untrained Motorman Runs Down Child—Trouble Spreading Over City.

(By the International News Service.)
New York, July 29.—Another death resulted from the car strike in the Bronx today. The strike is spreading rapidly. The men on the Third Avenue line north of Sixty-fifth street walked out today, marooning a great part of the district from the rest of the city, and William B. Fitzgerald, chief organizer of the carmen, tonight, predicted that "by Monday at the latest," the entire city will be tied up.

Today's fatality had as a victim 4-year-old Pauline Cohen. She started to toddle across the tracks in front of a St. Ann's avenue car. The motorman of the car, a strikebreaker, unfamiliar with the brakes, jumped from his post in a panic when he saw the car bearing down on the child and tried to escape.

A policeman, acting as guard on the car, leaped after and captured the man, who gave his name as Joseph Burns, a professional strikebreaker. He is held on a charge of homicide.

Thousands of persons were gathered along the street where the accident occurred, and Burns was saved from harm only by quick action of the police.

After 7 o'clock no cars ran into Harlem. Between Eighty-third and Eighty-eighth street, in Third Avenue, nearly 10,000 men and boys stood on the car tracks, the crowd beginning to gather shortly after 7 o'clock.

60 DIE IN DAY IN CHICAGO HEAT

Total Deaths in Windy City Now 160—Middle West Prostrated.

Chicago, July 29.—The Middle West continued today in the grip of the terrific and deadly heat wave. The heaviest toll of lives was taken in Chicago.

Sixty-three persons died of the heat during the day and the prostrations mounted well into the hundreds. This makes the total deaths for three days in Chicago alone 160.

Yesterday, seventy-one died. Today was a half holiday and 1,000,000 people, it is estimated by the police, sought refuge in the lake. This fact accounts for the decrease in fatalities in conditions which were just as deadly as those prevailing yesterday.

But relief is in sight. Forecaster C. L. Mitchell, in charge of the local weather bureau, said tonight:

"The cool wave from the Rockies has already begun its journey. Tonight it will sweep over Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and part of Iowa. By Monday it should reach Illinois and the immediate Middle Western States."

The official thermometer in the tower of the Federal Building—a nice cool spot far removed from the sweltering streets—registered 56 degrees from 1 o'clock to 2:30 this afternoon.

CHILD LABOR UP IN SENATE

Hardwick Seeks to Saddle Immigration Bill on Wilson's Pet Project.

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.
Trouble for the administration legislative program loomed large and strong yesterday when the Senate wrangled over the plan, proposed by Senator Hardwick, of attaching the immigration bill to the child-labor bill as a rider.

The Georgia senator, a bitter opponent of the child-labor law, will have the support of Republican Senators in his efforts to have the immigration bill added to the other measure.

The immigration bill, standing alone, would be vetoed by President Wilson. If it is attached to the child-labor measure, the Chief Executive must automatically disapprove that law.

Senator Pendergast precipitated the debate when he announced his intention of forcing a vote on the immigration bill at the present session rather than in December, as was planned by the Democratic majority.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, denounced as infamous and shameful the plan to tie up the child-labor bill with other legislation. "I am not authorized to speak for the President, but I feel safe in presuming that the immigration measure will meet a veto," he said, "and the Senator from Georgia has a deep-seated purpose in taking this action."

Senator Hardwick replied that he would do anything in the world that was honorable to defeat the child-labor legislation. He expressed regret that the President had seen fit to come to the Senate and urge action on the measure.

The country is crying for a restricted immigration law, according to Senator Hardwick, and it was the duty of the Congress to pass it at once, regardless of the President's views on the measure.

"Wise men have changed their minds and mayhaps President Wilson may change his in this matter. We have no right to assume that because he vetoed this bill once before he will veto it again," said Senator Hardwick.

BOYCOTT ANSWER EVADES PROTEST

British Reply Fails to Meet Objections of U. S. to Blacklist.

Sir Cecil Spring Rice, British Ambassador, upon instructions from the London foreign office, informed Third Assistant Secretary of State Charles Phillips yesterday that, while the application of the terms of the British trading with the enemy act would affect persons, firms and corporations included in the published blacklist, they would not affect any American interest trading with those so listed.

It was said by high officials that the promise did not overcome this country's objections to the blacklist itself as an unwarranted interference with American commerce.

Neutral trade has been injured to a far greater extent than German trade under the application of the provision of the British trading with the enemy act, according to State Department officials who discussed yesterday the hardships imposed on neutral commerce by the publication of blacklists of neutral firms by Great Britain.

The chief concern of this government, it was said, lies in the possibilities of application of the assumed right to blacklist American and other firms.

It gives England, if she resists efforts to have the practice annulled, the right to veto any commercial transactions in any part of the world. If one firm in a neutral country can be blacklisted, it was said, thousands of such firms may be blacklisted. Nobody might be included in a blacklist, if it should be conceded that Great Britain has the right to prescribe one.

New York, July 29.—Two hundred anarchists broke into the offices of El Progresso, the Italian newspaper on Elm street, tonight, smashed windows and furniture and fought a thirty-minute battle with police reserves.

Waving the red flag, men and women cut telephone wires, assaulted editors and policemen with savage fury, and charged a rescue automobile from police headquarters.

Twelve prisoners were taken from the crowd and pushed into commandeered automobiles at the point of revolvers and rushed to the Elizabeth street police station.

ALLIES BOMBARD THIRD LINE OF FOE IN PICARDY

Franco-British Offensive Enters Second Month with Terrific Battle.

(By the International News Service.)
London, July 29.—The Franco-British offensive in Picardy entered its second month today with a terrific artillery battle raging along the greater part of forty miles, extending north and south of the Somme.

The weather is clear and the artillery fire of both sides has reached a new pitch of violence. The big guns of the British are steadily grinding down the defense works of the German third line, according to news dispatches from correspondents at the front tonight, and a resumption of great infantry activity is expected shortly.

There were a number of sharp actions on the front north of the Somme today, but they were local in character and launched with the object of straightening out the lines and consolidating the ground gained by the British.

The Germans, apparently, were content to be allowed to remain quiet, and attempted no counter-attacks of any moment.

The German guns were very active, however, and the indications are that the Teuton commanders plan to forestall the expected new English attacks by a counter blow.

That the Germans are bringing up every man at their command to withstand the allied thrust and to this end are draining the reserves in Germany is indicated by a dispatch from Berné which states that the class of 1913, boys of 16 and 19 years, have been ordered out and already are arriving at concentration points in southern Germany.

There were six occupants of the car. One, a little girl, escaped injury.
